MOTION FOR LEAVE TO OBTAIN A PRE-PLEA PRESENTENCE REPORT

14
15 Comes now the Defendant Julian Garcia-Palomera, by and through his counsel of record,
16 Gia McGillivray, Esq., and respectfully moves this Court for an order directing the United States
17 Probation Office to prepare a Pre-Plea Presentence Report for the limited purpose of determining 18 Mr. Garcia-Palomera's criminal history. In support hereof, Mr. Garcia-Palomera represents that 19 the purpose of the report would be to assist Mr. Garcia-Palomera in determining the potential
20 consequences of entering a plea and to confirm that he has properly recollected his criminal
21 history. Preparation of the requested report would assist Mr. Garcia-Palomera and counsel in 22 this matter. Counsel has spoken with Assistant United States Attorney Brandon Jaroch handling
23 this case, and he has no objection to the request herein.

24 MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

25 The preparation and use of a presentence reports is governed by 18 U.S.C. § 3552 and 26 Rule 32 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure. The text of Subparagraph (e) to Rule 32

lends support for the position that Rule 32 permits the preparation of a pre-plea presentence report prior to a plea agreement. Rule 32(e)(1) reads as follows:

(e) Disclosing the Report and Recommendation.

(1) Time to Disclose. Unless the defendant has consented in writing, the probation officer must not submit a presentence report to the court or disclose its contents to anyone until the defendant has pleaded guilty or nolo contendere, or has been found guilty.

According to its language, Subparagraph (e)(1) protects against non-consensual disclosure of a presentence report to a court or to anyone else prior to a defendant's plea of guilty or a finding of guilt. The protection against pre-plea disclosure necessarily suggests that the creation of a pre-plea presentence report is permitted.

The pertinent portion of Rule 32 has been modified on several occasions. The legislative history to the changes is informative. The 1989 amendments to Rule 32(c)(1) made it the functional equivalent of current Rule 32(e)(1). The Advisory Committee Notes to the 1989 Amendments indicated the purpose of the provision:

In amending [then] subdivision (c)(1), the Committee conformed the rule to the current practice in some courts: i.e., to permit the defendant and the prosecutor to see a presentence report prior to a plea of guilty if the court, with written consent of the defendant, receives the report at that time. The amendment permits, but does not require, disclosure of the report with the written consent of the defendant.

Fed. R. Civ. P. 32, Advisory Committee Notes, 1989 Amendments.

This history indicates that the probation department, under some circumstances, may prepare a presentence report prior to a plea of guilty. This interpretation also gives meaning to Rule 32(e)(1), which otherwise makes no sense. Where such a report is prepared, probation may disclose it to the government and defendant and with consent to the court, prior to a plea of guilty. In this manner, a defendant can obtain critical information upon which to decide whether to enter into a plea negotiation.

Mr. Garcia-Palomera is contemplating a plea offer extended by the government. Material

1 to this decision is the determination as to his criminal history. Specifically, the extent of his
2 criminal history.

3 It is true that the Court may not participate in plea discussions, nor may the Court force
4 Mr. Garcia-Palomera to submit to an interview with probation in violation of his 5th Amendment
5 right against self-incrimination. Similarly, the Court may not force the government to reveal its 6 evidence at an earlier stage than might otherwise be required. However, the Court does have the 7 discretion to order the probation office to prepare a criminal history of Mr. Garcia-Palomera.
8 The compilation of such a criminal history would serve the ends of justice and would not be
9 unduly burdensome under the circumstances. It would not violate Mr. Garcia-Palomera's 5th
10 Amendment rights or force the Government to reveal additional evidence. Mr. Garcia-
11 Palomera's criminal history is a matter of public record and its impact upon sentencing is 12 ordinarily fairly straightforward. Therefore, the compilation of such information prior to a guilty
13 plea, and upon specific request by the defendant, would not give rise to concerns that the Court is 14 improperly participating in plea negotiations.

15 For the foregoing reasons, Mr. Garcia-Palomera moves this Court to order the United 16 States Probation Office to conduct a pre-plea presentence investigation for the limited purpose of 17 determining Mr. Garcia-Palomera's criminal history.

18 Dated this 12th day of August, 2018.
